

The steep slope reduces expansion of the wave front, so the reduction in amplitude with distance is less than a spherical source.

Reflections from back wall reinforced the sound.

