

The screenshot displays the FL Studio 20 interface, specifically the 'Global Tracks' section. The interface is organized into a grid with 15 time steps (labeled 1 to 15) and 10 tracks. The tracks are as follows:

- Track 1: 'inst1' (Instrument 1.1) showing a complex waveform.
- Track 2: 'inst2' (Instrument 2.1) showing a complex waveform.
- Track 3: 'inst3' (Instrument 3.1) showing a complex waveform.
- Track 4: 'inst4' (Instrument 4.1) showing a complex waveform.
- Track 5: 'inst5' (Instrument 5.1) showing a complex waveform.
- Track 6: 'inst6' (Instrument 6.1) showing a complex waveform.
- Track 7: 'inst7' (Instrument 7.1) showing a complex waveform.
- Track 8: 'inst8' (Instrument 8.1) showing a complex waveform.
- Track 9: 'African Kit' (EXS) showing a green waveform.
- Track 10: 'Asian Kit' (EXS) showing a green waveform.

The bottom of the interface shows the 'Mixer' and 'Sample Editor' tabs, indicating the current view is the 'Sample Editor'.
