Description

Related to Issue #1396

After a test, especially remotely, it would be nice to have some kind of 'reward' for the subject in the form of a plot of their results and previous results - e.g. a boxplot with an overlay of their results (so they can see if they agreed or disagreed with previous participants). Other statistics would be nice too, not sure which they could be.

Perhaps showing a timeline of their test would be nice as well, and an incentive to spend enough time listening to all samples...

All of this should be customisable of course, so that it can be disabled as well.
