Description
I go to a project page and ask to add a publication. I add myself as an author. Then I ask to add another author and fill in part of the name of another user. The page offers me some autocompletions and I select one of them. At this point, the author's name is filled in correctly from the user I selected, but the institution and email address both appear as "undefined". (Note that in this case it is true that the user has no institution -- but the user does have an email address!)
