Description
If you get to the project list by clicking on a tag, the project list is (correctly) filtered by tag -- but the filter area doesn't reflect this, it shows no tags.

Verified that the fix works, but two problems still:

- Minor problem: the Filters box may be invisible (because its toggling pane is closed)
- Major problem with hopefully minor fix: the tags are not filtered against HTML injection, e.g. /projects?project[tag_list]=bold will render the tag in bold

The Filters Fieldset is now visible (commit:829052890acb);

Confirmed that

[http://test.soundsoftware.ac.uk/cannam/projects?project\[tag_list\]=small%3Cb%3Egnawing%3C/b%3Ethings](http://test.soundsoftware.ac.uk/cannam/projects?project[tag_list]=small%3Cb%3Egnawing%3C/b%3Ethings)

now gives a tag with the HTML stripped.

However,

[http://test.soundsoftware.ac.uk/cannam/projects?project\[tag_list\]=small+gnawing+things](http://test.soundsoftware.ac.uk/cannam/projects?project[tag_list]=small+gnawing+things) still gives a tag with + instead of spaces -- this is a problem because that's what you get if you click on a tag that has spaces in it in the projects list.

Also, if I actually type "smallgnawingthings" into the tag text field and hit Return, the gnawing bit comes up in bold, the tags are not stripped.

OK, happy with it now -- except for one tiny thing,

[http://test.soundsoftware.ac.uk/cannam/projects?project\[tag_list\]=small+gnawing+things](http://test.soundsoftware.ac.uk/cannam/projects?project[tag_list]=small+gnawing+things)

still shows the + signs in the tag in the filter area (even though it searches for the correct tag with its spaces)
