Feature # 318 (Closed): "Download this revision" in repository page

Download link ignores branch, tag selection

Description
The "Download as Zip" link ignores the currently selected branch and tag. (It does appear to work correctly if you go to a specific revision via the commit ID link and click it from there -- it's just the selected branch/tag dropdowns that aren't being taken into account)

Fixed in commit:b293eb7e5c94.

The rev string was being converted to a changeset object, which was used for the archive link. But the archive link generation only involved extracting the id from the changeset (same as the initial rev string) and using that. And if the rev string was not a changeset hash but a branch or tag, then the initial conversion to changeset object would fail so we would end up without a rev at all.

Fixed by using the original rev string in archive link.
