Description
It would be rather nice to have a single link that you could click on, which created a file (in the Files page) containing a snapshot of your repository as of a given revision (or tag?) That might help encourage those people nervous about releasing actual versions that they could at least make working snapshots -- and help users to distinguish between "usable but not really packaged" software and "unusable" software. Perhaps. "hg archive" makes a snapshot package very easily, it would be mostly a question of integration with the Files feature of the site.
