Description

Very much a "would be nice if" item, but, well, it would be nice if we could show the current Hg revision (output of "hg parents") in the test sites somehow -- I mean, actually in the browser.

As it is I can't tell without logging in to the box which revision the site is actually updated to, which makes it slightly harder to know whether I'm testing the right thing (particularly when it's not my test site).
